Exhausted Soil, So Called.

It is a common way of speaking of the soils of abandoned farms, and of others that yield only unprofitable crops, that they are worn out, exhausted, and almost valueless for the purposes of cultivation. This condition of barrenness is more apparent than real and has been produced by a treatment as superficial as the view of those so ready to condemn the soil. In the early days of mining in California the impatient gold seekers, with rude apparatus and primitive methods, collected such quantities of the precious metal as came easily to hand and forsook their claims, leaving behind in the earth far more gold than they carried away. In after years others more skillful have gathered abundant wealth from those forsaken fields. Something of the same nature will yet be accomplished upon thousands of acres of New England soil now lightly valued.

An acre of soil, going down a foot deep, contains approximately 2,700 tons in its 40,000 or more cubic feet, or about 124 pounds to the cubic foot. Chemical analysis demonstrates that this quantity of surface earth, in an ordinary average soil, contains about 4,000 pounds of phosphoric acid, 8,000 pounds of potash and 10,000 pounds of nitrogen. These ingredients, if purchased at usual market prices, might cost 4 cents a pound for the potash, 7 cents for the phosphoric acid, 16 cents for the nitrogen. At these rates, the aggregate value of these three substances in a thin surface acre, only a single foot in depth, would be $2,600. As the gold held in quartz was beyond the reach of the unskilled miner, the fabulous wealth of the soil is largely unavailable to the unskilled farmer. But the treasure is there, to be secured by the farmer of the future. The sum of $260,000 would be thought a pretty liberal valuation of an ordinary 100 acre farm. There are many such farms in Connecticut cheaply valued by owners who little appreciate the wonderful capabilities of the soil they call exhausted.—Hartford Times.

THE old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children's children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man who has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Once in a while you find such a man who has never taken any medicine. That man has lived a perfectly natural life. Not one in a thousand does do it. Sometimes very slight indiscretions or carelessness prevent the way for serious sickness. The germ theory of disease is well authenticated, and germs are everywhere. This need make no difference to the perfectly healthy body without effect. They are hurried along rapidly and thrown off before they have time to develop or increase. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, they will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of rich, life-giving properties, the blood will be a sluggish, putrid tide of impurity. Instead of giving strength to the tissues, it will force upon them unwholesome and insubstantial matter, and the man will lose flesh. The more flesh he loses and the weaker he becomes, the more susceptible he is to disease. His trouble will become complicated and serious consequences will follow. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases of blood. It is a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease, replaces impurities with rich, red blood, feeds the tissues and makes strong, healthy flesh.

Nervous Shock.

Now, we often hear of obscure nervous derangements with no clear cause following railway accidents, and of strange nervous symptoms complicating such obvious physical injuries as may occur, and many questions are apt to be raised as to the possibility of such phenomena being due to any known degree of concussion or injury of the nervous centers, and not infrequently much doubt is thrown on the bona fides of plaintiffs in such cases. While, however, quite admitting the frequency with which fraud is at the bottom of claims against railway companies, it does not do to forget that something else besides more physical injury may result from a railway accident. If terror, a sudden and intense horror, or, as some would say, a "mere nervous shock," without any physical injury at all, will produce long lasting changes in the mental and nervous mechanism, it would be strange indeed if such changes were not found in patients who, whatever the nature or extent of their other injuries, have gone through the terrible shock of a serious railway accident. From the moment of the first dancing on the rails, through the terrible time when passengers and portmanteaus are being tossed helplessly about, up to the moment when, with a final crunch, all becomes still, may not be a long time; but, short as it is, it is a spell of the intensest agony and terror which can be conceived, and it would indeed be passing strange if it did not write deeply on many nervous systems its note of horror.—London Hospital.

MR. REED TELLS THE OLD STORY

Speaker Reed, who some months ago thought he was a candidate for President, but found out when Mr. Hanna's convention assembled at St. Louis that he was mistaken, is now a candidate for re-election to Congress. He opened the campaign in his district and assured his hearers that when the election is over and the gold standard firmly established by McKinley, our credit abroad will be restored, foreign capital will flow into the United States for investment, and there will be general prosperity. This is an admission on the part of Mr. Reed that the country is not now prosperous, and that we have to depend upon foreign capital to make it prosperous. This capital will not come unless we sanction the policy of Mr. Harrison's and Mr. Cleveland's administrations by electing Mr. McKinley.

Mr. Reed, notwithstanding the reputation given him by the Republicans as a man of ideas, has nothing new to offer the people. He tells the old story repeated so often by the gold men. When Mr. Cleveland convened Congress in special session in the dog days of 1893, to repeal the Bullion Purchase act, the gold men, among whom was Mr. Reed, shouted in unison in Congress, that the passage of the repeal bill would restore confidence and that gold would flow in a continuous stream from Europe to the United States.

The silver men contended that the reasoning of the gold men was fallacious and that to restore prosperity our silver, which Europe was purchasing at much less than its coinage value should be made into legal tender money at home. But the theory of the gold men prevailed and the repeal bill became a law. It did not stop nor even check the outflow of gold and as the addition of $30,000,000 in Treasury notes, issued annually for the purchase of bullion, ceased there was less money in the hands of the people, and the market value of commodities continued downward, until it takes more wheat, more cotton, more corn and more labor to purchase a dollar than it did during the panic three years ago. Mr. Reed proved a false prophet in 1893, when he voted to repeal the Bullion Purchase act, and now he tells the same story, and makes the same promises he did then to induce the people to support the single gold standard candidate for President.

It is evident to those who reason from cause to effect that money will be shipped from the United States to Europe as long as the balance of trade and interest account is against the United States. Last year we shipped as much wheat, cotton, corn and pork to Europe as ever, but they only brought about one-half the price which they commanded before the adoption of the gold standard. Tourists took about $150,000,000 of gold out of this country last year. The interest on National, municipal, railroad and other bonds held in Europe amounted to several hundred millions. A part of that interest is paid in products exported to Europe. If wheat sold for a dollar a bushel and cotton for ten cents a pound, our exports would throw the balance of trade in our favor and gold would come from Europe, but at the present prices of farm products that balance is against us and is settled in gold, and gold, therefore, will go to Europe, so long as present conditions exist, though the flow may be suspended temporarily by the gold trust for political or jobbing purposes. The remonetization of silver would increase the price of our products, which Europe must have, throw the balance of trade in our favor, and stop the shipment of gold to London, Paris and Hamburg.

FUSION NECESSARY.

While the fusion of all parties who are opposed to the gold gamblers is desirable everywhere it is absolutely necessary to secure success in several States. In Michigan and Washington, for instance, the State laws enacted by Republican Legislatures prohibit the name of any candidate appearing on more than one ticket. This prevents the Democrats and Populists from nominating the same persons for office. To consolidate the silver element against the gold men it is, therefore, necessary to have complete fusion so that Populists and Democrats can unite upon one set of candidates and give them unanimous support. It is proposed in both States to hold the Democratic and Populist conventions at the same time and place and nominate one ticket, a part of which may appear on the official ballot as Democratic and a part under the designation of Populist, as that will enable both to maintain their organizations.

In Oregon the Populists are in the ascendancy, and last spring at their State convention they nominated four Presidential Electors. The Democrats have also an electoral ticket in the field. Both Populist and Democrats are for Bryan for President, but the Populists are for Watson for Vice President and the Democrats are for Sewall. Now they propose to withdraw two of the Populist and two of the Democratic electors and unite on one ticket. The Populists have agreed to the proposition, but the Democratic electors have not agreed as to who shall withdraw, and the State Central Committee may have to interfere.

FARMERS FOR FREE SILVER.

The first free silver demonstration took place in Terra Haute, Indiana, this week. Twenty-four wagons loaded with corn for a hominy mill wheeled through the city, making a parade blocks in length. On the sides of the wagons were mottoes such as these: "For Bryan," "We're all for free silver," "Give us free silver and we'll get fifty cents for corn and a dollar for wheat." Many Republican farmers are for Bryan for President.

A large majority of the farmers in every State in the Union are, according to all reports, for Bryan for President. In Maine and New York the farmers vie with those of Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota in their advocacy of free coinage. The gold standard affects Republicans and Democrats alike. Both suffer by reason of its adoption by the United States, and they sink partisanship for the time and work together and vote together to release the country from the thralldom of the gold trust. It is not a question of Democracy or Republicanism or Populism with the farmers, but a plain proposition of getting something more than the cost of production for their crops.

Arrested in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 30.—C. O. Swanberg, wanted in San Francisco on a charge of perjury in a swindling case, was arrested here to-day and will be held till the San Francisco authorities serve extradition papers.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. Police Captain Lees said that a police officer had been sent to Sacramento to-day to get the requisition papers signed by Governor Budd, and that he will then go on to Chicago and bring Swanberg back for trial on the perjury charge. Captain Lees said that he had been investigating Swanberg's connection with the estate of Louis Corvieu, and is inclined to believe that Swanberg and H. W. Westphal have improperly disposed of $90,000 belonging to the Corvieu estate. It is said that a misappropriation was made before Corvieu's death. It is also charged that Swanberg committed perjury before Probate Judge Coffey in connection with the Corvieu estate.

A Burglar's Artifice.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Charles Brannan, who walked into the police station at 2 o'clock this morning and handed the police sergeant a pistol and remarked that he had accidentally shot himself while in the country, was to-day identified by Percy McCoy as a burglar whom he had shot last night. Brannan was also identified by a pawnbroker, who bought stolen articles from him yesterday.

Suits for Railroad Taxes.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 30.—State Controller Colgan has brought a suit in the Superior Court in this county, to recover from the California & Nevada Railway Company the sum of $1,447 57, due as State and county taxes. A like suit has been filed against the Atlantic & Pacific R. Co., for the recovery of $3,667 85.

Poisonous Alcohol.

DUNGENESS, Wash., July 30.—Robert Stark and Abe Tinkey, the former being a merchant and the latter the Postmaster at Sequim, four miles from this place, died to-day from the effects of a decoction of alcohol made from wood.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The President has appointed John Sheridan of West Virginia Government Director of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Bryan will receive the notification committee of the Democratic Convention at Madison Square Garden, New York, August 12th.

A hailstorm in South Dakota, which extended through a fertile country sixty miles long and about six miles wide, damaged crops to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

General Turnbull, President of the San Francisco Gold Mining Exchange, in his annual report says in view of the exceedingly stringent times the exchange may be congratulated upon its success.

The Republican State Central Committee of Colorado passed a resolution endorsing McKinley and Hobart and urging Republicans who had announced themselves for Bryan and Sewall out of the party.

Fireworks stored under the town hall at Fuenfkirchen, Austria, exploded, killing five persons and demolishing the town hall and adjacent buildings. One hundred persons, including the Burgo Master, were injured.

Court in the Webber case that citizens may not be misled as to the meaning of the military laws.

Three young men, supposed to be respectable, have been arrested at Los Angeles for horse stealing. They borrowed a team in the city and in a trip to the country succeeded in stealing and selling three valuable horses.

A committee visited the miners at the Pittsburg Coal Company's mine in Sullivan county, Indiana, and sought to induce them to quit work. Yesterday morning the watchman was captured and the works burned; loss, $25,000.

The most destructive storm in the history of the place occurred at Gloucester, Ohio, night before last. Buildings were blown down and fifteen persons killed. A lively stable containing six horses, buggies, etc., was blown into Sunday Creek and swept away.

Evidence of wholesale corruption in Chicago municipal affairs is in the possession of the civic federation. The city is run by a board of boodles Aldermen and the police department is said to be rotten. The government is Republican and opposed to monetary and all other reforms.

The Commissioner on Internal Revenue in his report to the Secretary of the Treasury shows the receipts from internal revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, to have been $146,890,710, an increase of $3,884,547 over the preceding year. The expense of collecting was 2.07 per cent, or $4,014,310.

W. E. Burt, one of a respectable family at Austin, Texas, murdered his wife and two small children last Friday and then threw their bodies in a cistern. He left next day, but told his neighbors not to use the cistern water, as it was polluted by a dead cat. A search was instituted for the family by the neighbors and the bodies were discovered. His brothers have offered a reward of $300 for his apprehension.

A man and woman carrying a load of tanglefoot attempted to cross the V. & T. bridge last evening, lost their bearings and fell off the small trestle just north of the main bridge. Neither of them were injured, but had a narrow escape from drowning.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the only remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

THE "BULLETIN" ANSWERED

A Workman Gives It More Than It Bargained For.

The San Francisco Bulletin advocated free coinage until Mr. Hanna and the gold gamblers declared against it at St. Louis. Since then the Bulletin has been trying to refute its former arguments and it publishes the following at the head of its editorial columns as an incentive to workmen to assist in doing so:

FREE SILVER AND WAGE-EARNERS.
"There is one plain question for workmen to answer who are inordinately to the free silver view:

"Supposing it be granted that making 50 cents' worth of silver into a dollar would raise the price of the farmer's wheat, corn, hay, beef, pork, mutton, barley, eggs, butter and potatoes, thereby helping him, how would it help the workman—the man whose daily wages pays for his daily bread—to increase the cost of those articles which go to make up his living?

"The Bulletin would like to hear from workmen on this question, and to print their answers."

A WORKMAN'S ANSWER.
"You want to know, Mr. Editor, what benefit it will be to the laborer if wheat, sugar, fruit, clothes, etc., go up in price through the increased demand for these articles by foreign countries, whose low priced silver will be sent here as ballast in exchange for the product of this State.

"It is a real blessing, in the first place, to know, Mr. Editor, that you are really convinced that free silver will so increase the demand for the produce of this State as to raise the price of all kinds of produce to the foreigner and so put some more money in the pockets of the farmer, vineyardist, fruit grower, manufacturer, merchant, etc., but alas! for the poor laborer. He alone is to be left out in the cold. Mr. Editor, did you ever know, in all your experience, of a similar case where the demand for the produce of a country was so great and the profit was so large to the employer of labor, that the laborer did not get his fair share of the spoils?

"Mickey and I did smile at your sweet innocence when we read your article on the terrible burdens the laborer would have to bear if the price of things went up. You surely forget that just now there are two hungry laborers waiting with tears in their eyes to get a chance at one job, but with the increased demand there will be two jobs waiting for one laborer, and you bet your life that the laborer then will want to drink his pint of Wieland's Extra Pale and smoke his white labor cigar before he makes up his mind which job he tackles. Now, Mr. Editor, just for a moment imagine the foreigner offering the farmers $2 a bushel for wheat he cannot deliver unless he first gets the laborer's assistance, and two farmers are anxiously soliciting each laborer, instead of each farmer being solicited by two laborers. And if you know what stuff a free laborer is made of, and how well he can take in the true situation of affairs, how indifferent he is to rush at a job when there is no one else in sight to take the job, and how close he can get to all the traffic will bear when he knows he is boss.

A Suit to Decide the Ownership.
Workmen were put at work yesterday, clearing and fencing the lot formerly the site of the Riverside stables, and the vacant space just opposite the Riverside Hotel. The town claims the latter space as a public square, it being asserted that M.C. Lake had dedicated the ground to the public, and that the official map of the town establishes this fact. Besides it has been claimed that the square has been used as a public highway for over twenty years, consequently any former private ownership has ceased.

On the other hand, the owners of the Riverside property, Messrs. Maack and Powning, claim that the ground is a part of the property purchased by them that they hold the title, and insist on utilizing the lot.

With this in view they have commenced improvements. A number of residents on the south side of the river object, and on yesterday an injunction was served and the men ordered by the Chief of Police to stop work. During the afternoon it was agreed to test the matter in the courts. Mr. Powning agreeing to give a bond, and proceed with the work, and should the matter of ownership be decided against him, all improvements to be removed. There is quite a difference of opinion regarding the matter, but a suit will settle the question for all time and to whom the property belongs.

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturers Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel, Fort Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail, and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hemming, 223 E. 25th street, Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of croup because it instantly relieves. Free trial bottles at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A GROSS LIEB.

The Unfounded Charges of the "Call" Refuted.

RANCHO DEL SIERRA,
WASHOE, Nev., July 30, 1908.

There has been a serious mistake made in connecting the name of George D. Winters, son of Theodore Winters, with the murder of Sheriff Douglas of Nevada county, and it is a mistake that some one will be obliged to pay for. The description of the dead bandit and his wild career does not fit George D. Winters in one single instance.

George Winters is a man 48 years old, 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 210 to 215 pounds, and has very gray hair and a black mustache.

He received a college education, but devoted his life to stock raising. He never was arrested on suspicion of hiring any murder done, or for any offense whatever. He is at present at home on the Smoke Creek ranch, Roop, Washoe county, Nevada, where he has lived for years and reared his family, never having been away from home longer than a few days at a time.

He never followed race horses or the racing circuit, and although the son of a man who has devoted many years to raising thoroughbreds, he knows as little about a race horse as the paper that published the account of his wild career does about truth and honesty.

George D. Winters came to California with his father in 1849, and father and son came to Nevada in the early fifties, and George has lived here ever since.

He has a reputation for honesty, integrity and peacefulness above reproach, the Call to the contrary notwithstanding.

As for the bandit being an adopted or step son, Mr. Winters never had an adopted or step son, and the child, Oscar Peoples, aged 14 years, is the only person for whom he is even a guardian.

Mr. Winters is not a man who will meekly submit to having his fair name and reputation smirched by a lie published by a paper that seeks not the truth, but fills its columns with sensational reports without the slightest foundation of truth.

Mrs. NETTA WINTERS-GREGORY.

THE MINING LAWS.

A New Edition of Copp's Code.

The JOURNAL is in receipt of a copy of the ninth edition (just out) of Copp's Mining Code, published by Henry N. Copp, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., who has given years of study to the mining laws. It is a book of over 200 pages and is invaluable to mine owners and prospectors, as it gives the United States mineral land laws and the official instructions thereunder, the various State and Territorial mining laws, miners' liens, rights of way and the numerous forms for use from the location to the patenting of a mine, and abstracts of court and land office decisions and rulings. The book is for sale by the principal book stores and by the publisher, Washington, D. C. The price is 50 cents.

Another Serious Bicycle Accident.

Arthur Coughlin met with a serious accident last evening while riding his bicycle. He was speeding along at a good pace when an insect flew in one of his eyes causing him considerable pain, and he let go the handle-bar and put his hand to the eye. His wheel struck a rock or a rut and he was thrown to the ground with terrible force and was stunned by the fall. Mr. Bender happened along and finding the young man badly hurt and suffering intense pain assisted him home. Medical aid was summoned and he was made as comfortable as possible, but he will be laid up several days.

Miss Evans had been attending the State University at Reno for the last two years. She was a bright student and a great favorite with her classmates. She leaves a mother, five sisters and two brothers to mourn her untimely death.

THE ST. LOUIS CONVENTIONS.

The delegates who have returned from the St. Louis Convention say the weather was unseasonably hot and while they shed no blood for their country they perspired freely for and shed everything but their skin.

They got along admirably with the Populists from the western country, but the "Texas steers," as the delegation from the Lone Star State was called, were unmanageable. Nearly every man in the delegation was a candidate for some local office, and the nomination of Bryan by the National Convention lessened their chance of election, hence their opposition to fusion. Mr. Hanna's men also opened a bar! and that inspired many of the so-called middle-of-the-road men, while others were "what they pretended to be real sincere advocates of all the 'isms'" in the Omaha platform. Nearly all the able men in the Populist Convention were for fusion, feeling that it would insure the election of Bryan.

Mr. McCullough of the Nevada delegation gave Senator Stewart his proxy to the Populist Convention and the Senator addressed the members and counseled harmony.

Charles Lane of the California delegation, owner of the most productive gold mines in the world, paralyzed the gold men by making a logical speech in favor of silver. Mr. Lane planked up $3,500 to defray the expenses of the convention and is one of the most enthusiastic Bryan and free silver men in the United States.

PUT UP OR SHUT UP.

A Challenge Open to Any Baseball Club in the State.

The Silver Star Baseball Club of Virginia City seems to be doing a good deal of talking through their hats about being the champions of the State. If they are such fine players let them send a forfeit to the Evening Gazette, in any amount they want to play for, and it will be immediately covered and a game arranged for. If the Virginia boys don't want to "fish or cut bait," possibly there is another club in the State that wants to play for money. If so, send along your forfeit and it will be covered.

Found Drowned.

The body of a man was discovered in the river at a point about a mile and a half below Vista. The body was lodged against an old tree or some drift wood quite a distance from shore. Coroner Peers was notified and he started down the valley last evening to secure the remains. It is supposed that the dead body is that of an old man who is said to have escaped from the Asylum some time ago, but this is only a surmise as the remains could not be identified in the water.

Nervous Strain of Railway Work.

There is reason to believe that at all times there are men on the lines who are working very near to their breaking strain. We may in regard to this mention three well known instances which at the least show the tension under which work is often carried on. A station master, seeing a man run over on the line, himself fell down dead upon the platform. Here was a shock which permanently made his heart stand still; but how many times had not that man's heart stood still before? We may feel perfectly certain that if the major shock could kill, the minor daily recurring shocks of a railway life must have greatly damaged a heart so under the influence of the nervous system.

Two trains collided at a junction. It was either the fault of the drivers or of the rails, certainly not of the signalman. The signals were right; yet when the box was entered the signalman was found to have gone mad, and had to be taken to an asylum, where he remained for long. He was broken utterly by the horror of the dilemma; but what shall we say about the smaller dilemmas which every hour of his working life he had to solve? Did they not also have an effect, although a lesser one, upon his brain?

A few years ago it was found that the sickness rate among the signalmen of certain lines was becoming excessive, and it was determined to do away with the system of leaving to one man the whole responsibility of taking charge of a signal box. At great expense every box along the line was supplied with two men. Great evils were prophesied; it was thought the men would talk, and talk, and neglect their duties. This did not happen, but the sickness stopped. Under the shared responsibility they no longer broke down.—British Medical Journal.

The Thunder's Long Roll.

The prolonged roll of thunder is readily explained by comparison with a volley fired along a line of troops. Suppose troops to be drawn up on a line in such numbers as to extend for a mile and ordered by a signal that all could see to fire at once. One standing at the end of the line would hear the report of the musket nearest him instantly. He would hear the others successively. Thus a report 550 feet away would come to him in half a second, and he would not hear the last report for five or six seconds after the gun had been fired. This would produce a sort of roll, which would gradually increase in intensity. If the listener stood exactly midway between the two ends of the line, the reports from both ends would reach him at once, and the sound would be but half as long in reaching him as if he stood at one extremity. If the soldiers formed a circle, there would be one sharp explosion. Flashes of lightning may be considered as representing three lines of troops along which the explosions occur at the same time. Consider the variety of distance and position of the listener, and we account for the variety of sound in thunder. In mountainous regions the rolling is augmented by reverberations or echoes.—Boston Traveller.

A Realistic Effect.

At the final rehearsal of Mozart's opera, "Don Giovanni," the composer was dissatisfied with the efforts of the young lady to whom the part of Zerlina was assigned. Zerlina is frightened at Don Giovanni's too pronounced love-making and cries for assistance behind the scenes. Mozart was unable to infuse sufficient force into the poor girl's screams, until at last, losing all patience, he clambered from the conductor's desk up to the boards. At that period a few tallow candles dimly illumined among the desks of the musicians, but over the stage and the rest of the house almost utter darkness reigned. Mozart's sudden appearance on the stage was therefore not suspected by poor Zerlina, who, at the moment when she ought to have uttered the cry, received from the composer a sharp pinch on the arm, emitting in consequence a shriek which caused him to exclaim: "Admirable! Mind you scream like that tonight!"

Went by the Express.

Suburban Resident—See here, sir! You told me that country place I bought of you was only 35 minutes from the city.

City Agent—Yes, sir, 35 minutes by express. You remember, when we went out to look at it, the time was 35 minutes exactly.

"But, confound it, sir, the express trains don't stop there, not one of them, and the accommodation takes about an hour and a half!"

"You and I went by express, and it stopped for us, you know."

"Yes, I know; but it hasn't stopped since."

"It will stop if you hire a man at your station to buy a through ticket for somewhere. That's the way I did the day we went out."—New York Weekly.

London's Oldest Restaurant.

Probably the oldest restaurant in London is Croxley Hall, in Bishopsgate street, in the city. This was built more than 500 years ago, was once the palace of Richard III. and afterward the residence of Sir Thomas More. It was in this building that Shakespeare laid the scene of Richard's plot for the murder of the young princes. The structure was ignited by fire, fell into decay and in 1838 was restored. One tumbles up the narrow, winding stairs, leaving below the modern restaurant, passes through low doorways that show walls 3 feet in thickness and enters the hall, a great room lighted by high windows and a beautiful oval. In the restoration the old features have been retained, and at one end is the minstrel's gallery, looking down on more prosaic scenes than it once witnessed. The white capped foot stands at the huge fireplace, now converted into a grill, and the chape and potato comes smoking to your table.
Pretty waitresses wish to know if you don't want a pint of the famous "ale and ale," and the waiter is wise if he accepts the hint. This would seem a fitting place to sit and muse in a Johnsonian fashion on the variety of human life, but there is little seclusion about the spot today, for bankers from Threadneedle street are continually discussing trade and securities in this room, which has known the presence of Sir Philip Sidney and Ben Jonson—a room where it requires no very vivid imagination to fancy the Countess of Pembroke reading the famous sonnet that Spencer wrote to her honor.—Home Journal.

The Real Nice English Girl.
It is a bonny sight to watch the lithe and breezy English girl promingling with her lolly dog upon the bowdler beach at Brighton, according to Sterling Hells. She will run a foot race with her 8-year-old brother down the main street of the village, utterly thoughtless of attracting attention. If she happens to pull up breathless and glowing, flushed and moist eyed, with her golden hair a-banging down her back, in the center of admiring friends, it is to explain to them that she has been running. "Such larks! Tommy and I have been running a foot race." It's not to make her object, as a French girl would.
Really, it isn't. She doesn't know enough.

She will scratch herself in company, no matter where the mosquito has been.
She will fall in love with a man and will follow him about like a dog. She will sit on a rock and be hugged, oblivious of the fact that every one is looking. She is wonderfully frank. She will say to a seafarer man: "What a sheeking bad sailor you are! Your liver must be in a frightful state!" She is a great fisher and can row a boat. She is all the time blushing. She has fireworks in her hands. When she walks out with her lolly dog upon the bi-camping sands, you don't know which to whistle to, both as so intelligent.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Climbers Have Conquered All of the Alps.
Of course the mystery is gone from the Alps—now but climbers know how completely. Every mountain and point of view of even third rate importance has been ascended, must by many routes.
Almost every gap between two peaks has been traversed as a pass. The publications of some dozen mountaineering societies have recorded these conquests expeditions in rows of volumes of appealing length. Of late years vigorous attempts have been made to co-ordinate this mass of material in the form of climbers' guides, dealing with particular districts, dealing with every peak and pass in detail with in strict geographical succession and every different route and all the variations of each route are set forth, with references to the volumes in which they have been described at length by their discoverers. Nearly half the Alps has been treated in this manner, but the work has taken ten years, and of course the whole requires periodical revision.—Sir W. M. Conway in Scribner's.

Why They Wear Hats.
History does not tell, so far as we know, how it came about that members of the English parliament wear their hats. The custom has descended from an age when its proceedings were not recorded, but one may suspect that thereby hangs a tale of sturdy and victorious revolt against privilege, such as broke out at Versailles, could it be recovered.
Now and again we find antique allusions to the practice. When the commons voted that every one should "uncover or stir or move his hat" when the speaker expressed the thanks of the house for any service done by a member, Lord Palkland "slatched both his arms out and clasped his hands together on the crown of his hat and held it down close to his head, that all might see how ordinary that flattery was to him."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Cut Flowers in New York.
There are now about 20 wholesale commission dealers in cut flowers in the city. The first dealer in this business started about 15 years ago. Before that retail florists who did not raise their own flowers sent to the greenhouses of the growers for them. Now nearly all florists buy of the wholesale commission dealers in the city.

The flowers sold in this city are grown in New Jersey, and on Long Island and at some other points in this state. They are brought here by express packed in boxes constructed for the purpose. The busiest part of the day in the wholesale flower establishments is from 8 o'clock in the morning, at about which time the flowers arrive, until about noon.

The customers of the wholesale dealer include not only city florists, but also florists in many places within 75 miles around New York, and flowers are often shipped from here to points much more distant.—New York Sun.

ADOBE BUILDINGS.

SIMPLE ARCHITECTURE OF MUD HOUSES IN NEW MEXICO.

How the Bricks Are Made—They Have Straw In Them and Are Sun Dried.
Dwellings Made In This Way Are Very Durable—A Favorable Climate.

Architectural engineering is a branch of the gentle art of making mud pies in the land where the adobe houses grow.
In the land of sunshine, where a rainy day is so rare that it is marked with a red cross, the native contractor and builder wastes no time figuring on the strength of material, the crushing limit of tubular columns and the wind pressure per square foot of elevation. He does not pore over blue prints of plans, cross sections and elevations, nor does he whittle down his figures to the finest point so as to come under some other contractor's bid. He simply rolls his trowsers up above his knees, digs down in a favored ditch or pond until he strikes the "dobe mud," and in a short time he is ready to begin constructive operations.

Adobe houses are brick houses, but the brick is sun dried and made with straw. The clay or mud of which the brick is made is a natural cement peculiar to the arid plains of New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and that belt of states and territories. It is turned out in the most primitive manner, and the Blue Island brickmaker who might happen upon a half baked Mexican "dobe" brickman would view the operation with amusement or disgust. Kiln burned brick, made of blue clay, however, would not meet the requirements imposed by the climatic conditions of those countries where adobe brick is used.

In summer an adobe house is cool; in winter it is warm. Its thick walls absorb the occasional rain, and, although the sun dried brick is soft compared to the kiln dried article, it does not crumble, and it stands for ages.

A man who recently traveled through New Mexico was much interested in the "dobe" houses. For weeks he inquired and searched for a "dobe house" in the hands of the builders. At length in Santa Fe he stumbled upon a couple of men stamping with their bare feet upon clay in a wooden frame. He inquired and found that he was looking upon two Mexicans making adobe brick. In describing the process he said:

"The men actually dug up the 'dobe' mud from the bottom of the ditch which skirted the road. They mixed it, or, as we say, 'tempered' it with water until it was of a stiff, clayey consistency.
Then they chopped alfalfa hay into short pieces and mixed it with the clay, and their material was ready to make into brick. A wood frame lay on the ground. This frame was filled with the 'dobe' mud mixed with hay, and one of the men got into the frame and stamped the mud down with his bare feet, at the same time tamping it with a stick.
After the frame was packed hard he scraped the surplus mud off with a stick, so that the top surface was level with the upper edges of the frame, and then lifting the frame from the clay he carried the brick to one side of the road at I stood it on its edge. The next brick he made he leaned against the first one, and soon he had a dozen large bricks—each twice as wide and long and thick as an ordinary brick—drying in the sun. One of the men told me that the bricks would be ready to lay in three or four days, and that they used the mud which the bricks are made of for the plaster."

"The walls of an adobe house are very thick, sometimes two or three feet, and in the ordinary one story adobe house, which is characteristic of that region, they are built up perfectly plain until they reach the roof. The roof is supported on wooden beams, laid edgewise on level with the top of the beams between the timbers, leaving the edge of the rafters exposed. The roof has a slight slant, and is made of adobe bricks.
When it rains, the water soaks into the roof bricks, but does not begin to drip down into the rooms below until the rain is over. Then the only moves out until the water is through with its dripping. I saw an adobe house in Santa Fe which was built in the sixteenth century, and, so far as I could see, the walls were as strong and good as any house around there."

"Walls are built of stone, plastered with adobe cement, if I may so call it, and such walls are strong and solid. I suppose if that country had half as much rain as falls in Chicago the 'dobe' houses would after a time crumble away, but the average year in New Mexico is made up of 187 days of unclouded sky, 139 days when sunshine predominates and only 89 days of cloud, so that the rainfall does not amount to much more than a good sized fall of dew."

It is estimated that an adobe house costs about $100 a room, but there are magnificent built of this material which cost not less than $80,000 to construct.
When the "Americans" settled in New Mexico, Utah, Arizona, Nevada and the lower part of California they accepted the treeless condition of the country and built their houses of 'dobe mud'— Chicago Record.

Kentucky's Names.
Kentucky is known as the Corn Cracker State, from a game bird enjoying the same name which was formerly found in great abundance in most parts of the state. It is also called the Blue Grass State, from the belt of land running through the center in which this variety of grass grows to great perfection. In the early days of our history it was known as the Dark and Bloody Ground, being so termed by the Indians. It was then a debatable land between the Indians living north of the Ohio and those living in the mountains of Tennessee and Georgia, a sort of battleground for these tribes, which fact gave it the name long before it was settled by the whites.

"In France," said Max Schottke, who represents a great American dry goods firm in Paris, "nearly every man saves something. It doesn't matter how small his income may be, he manages to put by a portion of his earnings. In this respect the thrift of the people stands out in marked contrast to the prodigal ways of the citizens of the United States.

Here it seems essential to spend a big sum of money to get much pleasure; in fact, the amount of pleasure seems measured by the money expended. But I think it undoubtedly true that the French people get more enjoyment out of life than the Americans."

"I see much to admire in this nation —its wonderful progress, its inventive genius, its unrivaled resources. There is nothing in Europe like our luxurious railways or our fine hotels. But with all that I had rather live in France.
Our nation has a bad name, I find, in this country, but the reputation isn't deserved. There is as much real religion and pure home life in France as exists in any land. We go to church early Sunday morning and in the afternoon to the picture galleries or for a jaunt into the woods. I think you would be better off here if you enjoyed Sunday more after the liberal fashion that prevails across the ocean."—Washington Post.

England Wrong, America Right.
"What is the proper spelling?" asks a correspondent. "Should it be 'tire,' or 'tyre'?" I answer with fear and trembling, for I know by experience what heated passions are sometimes aroused by questions of this gravity. I find, however, that Dr. Johnson is on the side of the "tire," though he notices the spelling "tyre," while Webster gives "tire" and ignores "tyre" altogether.

The interchange of "t" and "ty" in words of this shape seems to be purely a matter of convention or caprice, and one can only be guided by the ruling of the recognized authorities. Webster and Johnson are good enough for me, and I would suggest to the various pneumatic "tyre" companies now advertising their "tyres" that they should recode their spelling. Some time back I had a passage at arms with a gentleman over the same question in the spelling of the word "two," and the question was decided, to my mind, by the authority of Professor Skeat, who pronounces "tyro" a "gross misspelling." So far as I can see, very much the same might be said of "tyre."—London Truth.

Her Slippers.
"Just slip on your blue worsted slippers, darling, over your white satin ones to wear to the carriage, and leave them in the vestry room when you get to the church."

So said the bride's mother, a prudent woman, who did not wish to see a mud stained shoe protruding beneath the bridal gown as her "darling" came down the aisle from the altar. And the bride followed her advice, at least the first of it. But in the excitement of the house she forgot to remove them in the vestry room, and the congregation was treated to the unusual sight of a satin laced shoe, shambling along in bedroom slippers.—New York Journal.

For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cures" or Tonics for Catarrh in liquid form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassa, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat.
Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and if repeatedly neglected, the results of catarrh will follow: severe pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and sometimes an offensive discharge. Thereby should be quick to apply inflammation and heal the membrane. Cure for these troubles are the acknowledged cure for any troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.
